

TO GUARD THE HOME AGAINST ROGUES

Maj. Pullman, Chief of Police, Distributes Pamphlet Enumerating "Don'ts."

WORDS OF ADVICE GIVEN TO CITIZENS AND GUESTS

Co-Operation Invited in Effort to Thwart Crime and Prevent Accidents G. A. R. Week.

In an effort to obtain the co-operation of residents of the city and visitors against the work of thieves during encampment week, Maj. Pullman, this morning distributed copies of a pamphlet advising people what they should not do.

"If citizens and guests of the city will read and remember what is printed on these pages," said the chief of police, "the police force will be greatly helped in fulfilling its duty—the prevention of crime and preservation of order."

Under the heading "Do not" the chief of police gives the following advice: Do not leave windows, doors or back gates unlocked while you are away from your house.

Do not go away from your home to view the parade without leaving a caretaker or member of the family to protect your property.

Do not let yourself be jostled in a crowd.

Do not be careless with your belongings. Hold firmly to handbags and see that they are securely fastened.

Remember that there is a uniform rate in Washington and if in doubt examine the rate card required by the regulations to be in every public place in plain view.

Do not trust your money to a uniform person to be changed.

Do not pay for goods on delivery for yourself or others or express charges on a package until you are satisfied the contents were ordered by you or you have verified the amount of the express charge.

Do not admit to your home telephone, water or gas meter readers or unless they give proper credentials and authority.

Police to Give Information.

Ask the uniformed police or special police wearing shields for information and assistance.

Do not put implicit faith in what strangers tell you. The most polite infanteries may be the most audacious and skilled impostors.

Do not send money by strangers to friend or relative reported as having been taken suddenly ill or fallen into the hands of the police without first making a full and personal investigation.

Do not accept checks from strangers in payment for board and rooms or goods, without first investigating and ascertaining that the check is "good."

Do not wear valuable jewelry when in crowds reviewing the parade or other celebration.

Do not go sightseeing with strangers or unauthorized guides.

Any person who says he is a guide should show to you his authority from police department. A mere badge with the word "guide" printed on it will not do.

Do not match coats, especially with strangers, or be taken in by a "flam" game of any kind.

Do not make your home a safe deposit vault for silverware and jewelry while you are away.

Do not leave your belongings to untried employes; the temptation might prove too great.

Do not take the babies and small children to see the parade or the parade, they are apt to be hurt in the crowd.

Do not overindulge in the use of intoxicants during encampment week; to do so will cost you $10.

Avoid Ticket Speculators.

Beware of ticket speculators. Buy G. A. R. grandstand tickets at the stand booths, because tickets bought from speculators on the streets may be fraudulent.

Do not forget to co-operate with the

A New Novel of Love and Mystery by the Author of "The Official Chaperon"

The Official Chaperon by Natalie Sumner Lincoln

Who stole the pearls?

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

A BIG BARGAIN 423 to 427 Irving St. N.W. 423 Sold.

Six large rooms, tile bath, hot-water heat, gas and electric lights, hardwood trim, front and double back porches, laundry trays, servant's toilet, plastered ceiling, large lot, 16 ft. 18 in. deep, 142 ft. 15 in. alley, room for garage. Not a box house, but a long house.

PRICE, $3,850.

$300 Cash and Monthly.

LACY & BELT, 493 G St. S.W., Owners and Builders, Or Your Broker.

Phone M. 7072.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

HAS HONOR OF BEING AN ENTIRE REGIMENT

Lieut. A. N. Lent, Who Is Coming to Reunion, Explains His Unique Position.

WORDS OF ADVICE GIVEN TO CITIZENS AND GUESTS

Co-Operation Invited in Effort to Thwart Crime and Prevent Accidents G. A. R. Week.

In an effort to obtain the co-operation of residents of the city and visitors against the work of thieves during encampment week, Maj. Pullman, this morning distributed copies of a pamphlet advising people what they should not do.

"If citizens and guests of the city will read and remember what is printed on these pages," said the chief of police, "the police force will be greatly helped in fulfilling its duty—the prevention of crime and preservation of order."

Under the heading "Do not" the chief of police gives the following advice: Do not leave windows, doors or back gates unlocked while you are away from your house.

Do not go away from your home to view the parade without leaving a caretaker or member of the family to protect your property.

Do not let yourself be jostled in a crowd.

Do not be careless with your belongings. Hold firmly to handbags and see that they are securely fastened.

Remember that there is a uniform rate in Washington and if in doubt examine the rate card required by the regulations to be in every public place in plain view.

Do not trust your money to a uniform person to be changed.

Do not pay for goods on delivery for yourself or others or express charges on a package until you are satisfied the contents were ordered by you or you have verified the amount of the express charge.

Do not admit to your home telephone, water or gas meter readers or unless they give proper credentials and authority.

Police to Give Information.

Ask the uniformed police or special police wearing shields for information and assistance.

Do not put implicit faith in what strangers tell you. The most polite infanteries may be the most audacious and skilled impostors.

Do not send money by strangers to friend or relative reported as having been taken suddenly ill or fallen into the hands of the police without first making a full and personal investigation.

Do not accept checks from strangers in payment for board and rooms or goods, without first investigating and ascertaining that the check is "good."

Do not wear valuable jewelry when in crowds reviewing the parade or other celebration.

Do not go sightseeing with strangers or unauthorized guides.

Any person who says he is a guide should show to you his authority from police department. A mere badge with the word "guide" printed on it will not do.

Do not match coats, especially with strangers, or be taken in by a "flam" game of any kind.

Do not make your home a safe deposit vault for silverware and jewelry while you are away.

Do not leave your belongings to untried employes; the temptation might prove too great.

Do not take the babies and small children to see the parade or the parade, they are apt to be hurt in the crowd.

Do not overindulge in the use of intoxicants during encampment week; to do so will cost you $10.

Avoid Ticket Speculators.

Beware of ticket speculators. Buy G. A. R. grandstand tickets at the stand booths, because tickets bought from speculators on the streets may be fraudulent.

Do not forget to co-operate with the

A New Novel of Love and Mystery by the Author of "The Official Chaperon"

The Official Chaperon by Natalie Sumner Lincoln

Who stole the pearls?

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

A BIG BARGAIN 423 to 427 Irving St. N.W. 423 Sold.

Six large rooms, tile bath, hot-water heat, gas and electric lights, hardwood trim, front and double back porches, laundry trays, servant's toilet, plastered ceiling, large lot, 16 ft. 18 in. deep, 142 ft. 15 in. alley, room for garage. Not a box house, but a long house.

PRICE, $3,850.

$300 Cash and Monthly.

LACY & BELT, 493 G St. S.W., Owners and Builders, Or Your Broker.

Phone M. 7072.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

UNION DRUMMER BOY WHEN NINE YEARS OLD

Bernard Brady of Silver Spring, Md., Claims Distinction of Being the Youngest.

WORDS OF ADVICE GIVEN TO CITIZENS AND GUESTS

Co-Operation Invited in Effort to Thwart Crime and Prevent Accidents G. A. R. Week.

In an effort to obtain the co-operation of residents of the city and visitors against the work of thieves during encampment week, Maj. Pullman, this morning distributed copies of a pamphlet advising people what they should not do.

"If citizens and guests of the city will read and remember what is printed on these pages," said the chief of police, "the police force will be greatly helped in fulfilling its duty—the prevention of crime and preservation of order."

Under the heading "Do not" the chief of police gives the following advice: Do not leave windows, doors or back gates unlocked while you are away from your house.

Do not go away from your home to view the parade without leaving a caretaker or member of the family to protect your property.

Do not let yourself be jostled in a crowd.

Do not be careless with your belongings. Hold firmly to handbags and see that they are securely fastened.

Remember that there is a uniform rate in Washington and if in doubt examine the rate card required by the regulations to be in every public place in plain view.

Do not trust your money to a uniform person to be changed.

Do not pay for goods on delivery for yourself or others or express charges on a package until you are satisfied the contents were ordered by you or you have verified the amount of the express charge.

Do not admit to your home telephone, water or gas meter readers or unless they give proper credentials and authority.

Police to Give Information.

Ask the uniformed police or special police wearing shields for information and assistance.

Do not put implicit faith in what strangers tell you. The most polite infanteries may be the most audacious and skilled impostors.

Do not send money by strangers to friend or relative reported as having been taken suddenly ill or fallen into the hands of the police without first making a full and personal investigation.

Do not accept checks from strangers in payment for board and rooms or goods, without first investigating and ascertaining that the check is "good."

Do not wear valuable jewelry when in crowds reviewing the parade or other celebration.

Do not go sightseeing with strangers or unauthorized guides.

Any person who says he is a guide should show to you his authority from police department. A mere badge with the word "guide" printed on it will not do.

Do not match coats, especially with strangers, or be taken in by a "flam" game of any kind.

Do not make your home a safe deposit vault for silverware and jewelry while you are away.

Do not leave your belongings to untried employes; the temptation might prove too great.

Do not take the babies and small children to see the parade or the parade, they are apt to be hurt in the crowd.

Do not overindulge in the use of intoxicants during encampment week; to do so will cost you $10.

Avoid Ticket Speculators.

Beware of ticket speculators. Buy G. A. R. grandstand tickets at the stand booths, because tickets bought from speculators on the streets may be fraudulent.

Do not forget to co-operate with the

A New Novel of Love and Mystery by the Author of "The Official Chaperon"

The Official Chaperon by Natalie Sumner Lincoln

Who stole the pearls?

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

A BIG BARGAIN 423 to 427 Irving St. N.W. 423 Sold.

Six large rooms, tile bath, hot-water heat, gas and electric lights, hardwood trim, front and double back porches, laundry trays, servant's toilet, plastered ceiling, large lot, 16 ft. 18 in. deep, 142 ft. 15 in. alley, room for garage. Not a box house, but a long house.

PRICE, $3,850.

$300 Cash and Monthly.

LACY & BELT, 493 G St. S.W., Owners and Builders, Or Your Broker.

Phone M. 7072.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

U. S. to Grant Leave to Confederate Veterans

Confederate veterans in the employ of the federal government are to receive the same leaves that their veteran admirals will receive if they wish to attend the G. A. R. reunion here. This information was contained in a note sent by President Wilson yesterday to Corp. James Tanner, G. A. R., registrar of the District. Mr. Tanner had written to the President suggesting that many veterans who were the gray would like to attend the reunion, and asking that the executive order granting leave be extended to include them.

WORDS OF ADVICE GIVEN TO CITIZENS AND GUESTS

Co-Operation Invited in Effort to Thwart Crime and Prevent Accidents G. A. R. Week.

In an effort to obtain the co-operation of residents of the city and visitors against the work of thieves during encampment week, Maj. Pullman, this morning distributed copies of a pamphlet advising people what they should not do.

"If citizens and guests of the city will read and remember what is printed on these pages," said the chief of police, "the police force will be greatly helped in fulfilling its duty—the prevention of crime and preservation of order."

Under the heading "Do not" the chief of police gives the following advice: Do not leave windows, doors or back gates unlocked while you are away from your house.

Do not go away from your home to view the parade without leaving a caretaker or member of the family to protect your property.

Do not let yourself be jostled in a crowd.

Do not be careless with your belongings. Hold firmly to handbags and see that they are securely fastened.

Remember that there is a uniform rate in Washington and if in doubt examine the rate card required by the regulations to be in every public place in plain view.

Do not trust your money to a uniform person to be changed.

Do not pay for goods on delivery for yourself or others or express charges on a package until you are satisfied the contents were ordered by you or you have verified the amount of the express charge.

Do not admit to your home telephone, water or gas meter readers or unless they give proper credentials and authority.

Police to Give Information.

Ask the uniformed police or special police wearing shields for information and assistance.

Do not put implicit faith in what strangers tell you. The most polite infanteries may be the most audacious and skilled impostors.

Do not send money by strangers to friend or relative reported as having been taken suddenly ill or fallen into the hands of the police without first making a full and personal investigation.

Do not accept checks from strangers in payment for board and rooms or goods, without first investigating and ascertaining that the check is "good."

Do not wear valuable jewelry when in crowds reviewing the parade or other celebration.

Do not go sightseeing with strangers or unauthorized guides.

Any person who says he is a guide should show to you his authority from police department. A mere badge with the word "guide" printed on it will not do.

Do not match coats, especially with strangers, or be taken in by a "flam" game of any kind.

Do not make your home a safe deposit vault for silverware and jewelry while you are away.

Do not leave your belongings to untried employes; the temptation might prove too great.

Do not take the babies and small children to see the parade or the parade, they are apt to be hurt in the crowd.

Do not overindulge in the use of intoxicants during encampment week; to do so will cost you $10.

Avoid Ticket Speculators.

Beware of ticket speculators. Buy G. A. R. grandstand tickets at the stand booths, because tickets bought from speculators on the streets may be fraudulent.

Do not forget to co-operate with the

A New Novel of Love and Mystery by the Author of "The Official Chaperon"

The Official Chaperon by Natalie Sumner Lincoln

Who stole the pearls?

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

A BIG BARGAIN 423 to 427 Irving St. N.W. 423 Sold.

Six large rooms, tile bath, hot-water heat, gas and electric lights, hardwood trim, front and double back porches, laundry trays, servant's toilet, plastered ceiling, large lot, 16 ft. 18 in. deep, 142 ft. 15 in. alley, room for garage. Not a box house, but a long house.

PRICE, $3,850.

$300 Cash and Monthly.

LACY & BELT, 493 G St. S.W., Owners and Builders, Or Your Broker.

Phone M. 7072.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.

Illustrated by S. J. S. and Co.